Give Thanks for Your Health

It is commonly assumed that the average American gains at least five pounds during the holiday season (the time between Thanksgiving through the start of the new year). Recent research suggests, that actual weight gain is closer to one pound. Unfortunately, we tend to hang on to that one pound and pick up another one the next year. This could be one of the contributing factors to the increase in obesity among Americans.

Let's face it. Most people don't just sit down and eat Thanksgiving dinner. There are all those yummy appetizers and snacks before you even get to the dinner. A typical Thanksgiving Dinner is a moderate 3500 calories.

8 ounces of white and dark meat turkey	480 calories
1 cup mashed potatoes with butter	300 calories
1 cup stuffing	600 calories
3 to 4 ladles of gravy	300 calories
3/4 cup candied sweet potatoes	300 calories
1/2 cup cranberries	200 calories
1 roll with butter	180 calories
1 piece of pumpkin pie with whipped cream	150 calories
1 glass of apple cider or most soft drinks	150 calories

Portion Size is one of the keys to not overindulging during the holidays.

If you are offered dessert and crave the sweets, only eat half and skip the crust on the pumpkin pie

After enjoying your Thanksgiving feast, instead of sitting around watching the football game, take a family walk. You will feel better and this year give thanks for your health!
