

North Allegheny Elementary Libraries

Summer Reading Suggestions

Poetry

Poetry is a wonderful way to introduce children to the fun they can have with language. Poetry is a lively form of literature – almost all children enjoy the rhymes and word play and creativity that are introduced in poetry.

Agee, John Orangutan Tong: Poems to Tangle Your Tongue

This book presents a humorous collection of poems and very tricky tongue twisters. Try reading them aloud for even more hilarious fun! Two favorites are sure to be Walter and the Waiter and Knapsack Straps. How fast can you read them without tying up your tongue?

Florian, Douglas Poem Runs: Baseball Poems and Paintings

With exaggerated and colorful drawings, this collection of 15 baseball poems is sure to hit a homerun with any baseball enthusiast.

Fogliano, Julie When Green Becomes Tomatoes: Poems for All Seasons

Experience the changing of seasons through lyrical language and captivating illustrations.

Fleischman, Paul Joyful Noise: Poems for Two Voices (Newbery Medal book)

Written in a form to be read by two people (reading different parts or sometimes reading simultaneously), the fascinating world of insects comes alive in all its beauty.

Lewis, J. Patrick Spot the Plot: A Riddle Book of Book Riddles

These thirteen witty, wacky poems pose book riddles that challenge readers to Name That Book. Kids will delight in solving the riddles and recognizing their favorite stories of past.

Pinkney, Andrea Davis A Poem for Peter: The Story of Ezra Jack Keats and the Creation of the Snowy Day

The iconic picture book A Snowy Day has long been revered as an outstanding contribution to the world of children's literature. In A Poem for Peter, Pinkney shares the story of Ezra Jack Keats, the creator of this beloved book and how his determination to become an artist despite the odds ultimately inspired generations that followed him.

Rex, Adam Frankenstein Makes a Sandwich

This deliciously funny poetry book contains poems about the bad habits, anxieties, and other fears and foibles of monsters. They have feelings too!

Schertle, Alice Button Up: Wrinkled Rhymes

This is a delightful collection of poems about clothing and the animals that wear it.

Silverstein, Shel Runny Babbit Returns

In true Shel Silverstein style, Runny Babbit Returns is a collection of 41 archived poems and drawings featuring Runny and his forest friends. (Try others by this author)

Singer, Marilyn Echo Echo: Reverse Poems About Greek Myths

Do you think you know the story of Pandora's box? King Midas and his golden touch? Take another look in this book, a collection of reverse poems that will shed new light on classic myths. Each poem recounts a classic myth, but only when read one way. Read the poem in reverse from a different point of view and gain a new perspective. (Try others by this author)

Singer, Marilyn Rutherford B., Who Was He?: Poems About Our Presidents

History comes alive in this rhyming book of poetry about the US Presidents. With engaging illustrations and biographical information about each president, audiences will be entertained and learn something along the way.

Wardlaw, Lee Won Ton and Chopstick: A Cat and Dog Tale Told in Haiku

Won Ton the cat is no longer master of the house upon the arrival of a new puppy. Will his people forget about him? Told entirely in haiku, readers will excite over the adorable feline antics and surely empathize with Cat as he struggles to accept this newcomer.

Weatherford, Carole Boston Freedom in Congo Square

Winner of a Caldecott Honor, Coretta Scott King Honor, Charlotte Zolotow Award and a New York Times Best Illustrated Book, Freedom in Congo Square is a poetic nonfiction story that sheds light on a slice of little-known African American history. For Louisiana slaves in the 19th century, part of Sunday was celebrated as a time to freely gather, sing and dance in Congo Square in New Orleans.

Novels in Verse

Novels in verse, or verse novels, are simply books written in the form of poetry. The rhythm of verse novels becomes hypnotic making this type of book a very quick read.

Alexander, Kwame The Crossover (2014 Newbery Medal winner!)

This is the story of Josh and Jordan, twin basketball stars on their junior high team. Their father was a famous college basketball star who encourages them on and off the court. The boys start to change priorities as their father's health begins to fail. What is more important, basketball or life? Try also Booked and Rebound.

Woodson, Jacqueline Brown Girl Dreaming (Newbery Honor Book)

This Newbery Honor book reflects on the childhood of author Jacqueline Woodson and captures the feelings, fears and hopes of a young African American girl growing up during the Civil Rights movement. This touching collection of poetry will inspire readers as they learn about the world's struggles, as well as Woodson's personal struggles, and how she persevered through it all.

Other Novels in Verse to try:

Out of Wonder by Kwame Alexander

Love that Dog & Hate that Cat by Sharon Creech

Inside Out & Back Again by Thanhha Lai (2012 Newbery Honor Book)

They Call Me Güero: a Border Kid's Poems by David Bowles (2019 Pura Belpre Author Honor)

Julie Sterber's Eleanor series - Like Pickle Juice on a Cookie, Like Bug Juice on a Burger, Like Carrot Juice on a Cupcake

Locomotion by Jacqueline Woodson (2004 Coretta Scott King Award)

Out of the Dust (1998 Newberry Winner) & Witness by Karen Hesse